Property + Casualty Services

Technology

When it comes to technology innovation, our team understands the range of risks technology companies face — whether you create, distribute or work with technology. We will help analyze your current risks and anticipate those you may face in the future to structure a comprehensive insurance solution to help manage both.

Real Estate

Owning condos, apartment buildings or other multi-unit dwellings, presents a unique set of insurance needs. In addition to traditional property and casualty coverage, our team is well versed in a wide variety of other pertinent coverages, such as builders risk, equipment breakdown and environmental.

Environmental

Our team has extensive experience in structuring risk management solutions to address pre-existing pollution conditions, as well as environmental risks associated with operational exposures, such as products pollution, transportation, waste disposal, and contracting activities.

Construction

Contracting and development activities result in risks for general contractors, trade contractors, and subcontractors of all types. Our team will help structure a program to address these risks for daily operations or project specific, either as an owner controlled or a contractor controlled insurance program.

Non-profit

Our team is committed to securing the best insurance programs at the most competitive prices for nonprofits of all types and sizes across the United States.

Professional Liability

Claims resulting from professional services are costly and expensive to defend. Our team will work to understand your business and structure the appropriate protection to manage the risks that could impact your reputation and profitability.

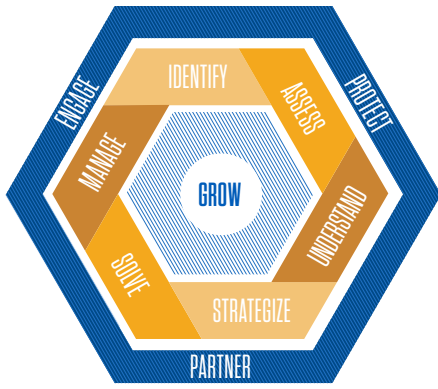

Manufacturing

Making goods and products, moving them and/or distributing them inherently creates potential liability issues. We will help evaluate these and craft strategies that mitigate exposures.

We Protect. You Grow.

Armada is Latin for armed services. In the 16th century, Spain embraced the name when titling a large fleet or team of ships designed to defend trade routes and protect the interests of merchants, manufacturers and their buyers. These defenders shielded their community from risks, which inspired growth and prosperity for those they served.

Today, our teams of risk management and insurance professionals honor the same mission to defend our clients from marketplace risks, freeing them to realize rewards, growth and innovation.

Our difference is we don't stop at negotiating with insurance carriers. We go further. We introduce our clients to others in our fleet — prospective customers, partners and strategic suppliers — who can enable them to be more competitive, grow and innovate.
